March 29, 2000 LB 1067

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: I'm thinking. (Laugh)

SENATOR CUDABACK: Okay.

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: I'm thinking. What I'm...Senator Schrock, I understand that whatever we decide in here with regard to germaneness is our own rule, but I am trying to think whether or not you're introducing another subject matter into a bill that I think is quite important, and whether or not somebody would challenge that bill as having more than one subject matter, and I'm talking about the constitutional standard, not the standard in our rules, and I'm...I'm a little bit concerned about that issue and I'm trying to figure out whether or not I think that LB 9999 (sic) would offend the constitutional standard. If it doesn't offend us in here that's one thing, but if it offends the constitution on Senator Kristensen's bill, I'm more than concerned about that because I think his is a very, very important bill and should...and should come through our process clean so that it does not have any possible challenge later on by someone who might not like it.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Schrock. Are you asking him a question, Senator Wickersham?

SENATOR WICKERSHAM: No.

SENATOR CUDABACK: There are no further lights on, Senator Schrock.

SENATOR SCHROCK: I cannot tell you whether this is a stretch. This is a pretty clean bill, no opposition. It is petroleum. If it's used in vehicles, it is taxed. I think there is a connection there, but if Senator Kristensen would like me to withdraw it, I will. So give us a minute, would you?

SENATOR CUDABACK: I'll give you two minutes. Stand at ease for two minutes. Senator Schrock.

SENATOR SCHROCK: I will withdraw the amendment.

SENATOR CUDABACK: It is withdrawn. Mr. Clerk.
